WHY JOIN?

Today employers are looking to hire those with more than just a college degree, they're looking for students who have gained active leadership and management experience. One of the best ways to do that is through an organization that is as distinguished as the Society for Advancement of Management.

This is a special invitation to join an international organization devoted to enhancing managerial talents both as a profession and as a skill. Being a member in the Society for Advancement of Management is definitely something that can be included on your resume.

The Society for Advancement of Management is your chance to be a part of something great while you are continuing your college career. SAM offers top of the line events to develop your professional abilities as well as fun, laid-back, and up-beat off-campus social events with other Cal State Long Beach business organizations.
